

Sleep Disorders in a Pandemic

One in five adult Americans suffers from sleep apnea. Sleep disorders from any source – including anxiety during a pandemic – are a risk factor for hypertension, cardiac problems, and Type 2 diabetes. These are linked to poorer-than-average survival rates from COVID-19 infection.

The overwhelming majority of sleep disorders remain undiagnosed.¹ Your patients' sleep disorders don't have to be.

Kane Hall Barry now offers home sleep testing.

Patients with a high probability of obstructive sleep apnea are eligible for home sleep testing, which is approximately one-fourth the cost of a full polysomnography in-lab test.

Patients Like Dr. Maddukuri

I had my first appointment with Dr. Maddukuri this week and was very happy with our visit. She was understanding and listened to all of my concerns. I felt that her assessment was very thorough and am looking forward to having her as my neurologist.

– Courtney T.

I would recommend Kane Hall Barry to anyone. They were really great in diagnosing and explaining what was going on with me. The staff was friendly & polite and Dr. Maddukuri has the best bedside manner you could ask for. Overall, I had a great experience considering I was at the doctor.

– Thomas L.

Dr. Maddukuri is always great and works for the best treatment. I'm always confident that I receive the best treatment available with her!
